

About the NRS

What is the NRS

The NRS is an outcome based reporting system for the state-administered federally funded Adult Education program.

What does the NRS Do?

The NRS Tracks five important outcomes for adult learners

- Educational Gain
- Enter Employment
- Retain Employment
- Obtain a Secondary Credential
- Enter Postsecondary Education

... to determine what is already working well for adult learners, and where we can make improvements to support adult learning and the adult education system.

Big Picture of the NRS

Staff at the federal, state, and local levels use data to inform decision making and to improve adult literacy programs

Federal Level

Develop framework and measures for the NRS	Provide training, technical assistance, materials development, quality control of state data collection efforts	Maintain a database on the performance of adult education nationally and by state
--	---	--

State Level

Establish policy , provide guidance, and train staff for adult education including assessments	Select , collect, and report on outcomes and secondary measures and use them for program improvement	Provide staff development and technical assistance to local programs
 Ensure data is valid, reliable, and of high quality

Local Level

Collect and maintain high quality data	Develop and support MIS to collect and report data	Follow state policy for assessing students and conducting follow up	Use data for program improvement to support effective adult learning
---	---	--	--